Message from Bob

Dear friends:

During the last year, I have used this space to update you about long range planning processes and potential capital campaign plans. Though the wheels of progress are turning more slowly than some might hope, let me assure you that it's only a sign of our commitment to inclusion, thoroughness, and clarity. This month, I am glad to report that several task groups of the Planning and Evaluation Board (our strategic planning arm) are hard at work and making substantial progress. Here is a brief update of some of their work.

Child Development Center: One of the most pressing needs of our city is high quality and affordable early childhood education. Nearby Childhood Development Centers have long waitlists and little, if any, financial assistance for those who struggle to afford quality care for their children. Our task group has done copious research, developed financial models, worked with architects, and is getting close to being able to recommend a wise course forward. As this endeavor has potential for high long-term impact, I ask that you keep them in your prayers, that they would have both wisdom and vision.

Affordable Housing: This group, too, has been working quite hard, exploring models for the highest impact in this area of much need. We have explored the possibility of collaborating with various mission partners, developers, and the city. In addition, we would like to coordinate our affordable housing efforts and other mission endeavors, such as our work with Freedom Schools, Charlotte Family Housing, Habitat for Humanity, and Highland Renaissance Academy. This has taken considerable patience, diligence, and care. Early indications suggest it will probably involve taking measured risks as we seek to address this pressing problem in our city.

Sanctuary, Fellowship Hall and Education Wing Enhancements: All of these buildings are of high use and dated design. We are exploring modest but important updates such as updated plumbing through the preschool and the Education Wing, restrooms on the second floor of the Fellowship Hall, and a hearing loop, maybe a bathroom or two, and an elevator (as recommended in the original blueprints) for the Sanctuary. These simple enhancements along with a few other cosmetic changes (in the Education Wing and Fellowship Hall) would go a long way to making these buildings fully functional in a 21st century world. These ideas are still very much in the exploration stage.

Let me repeat that once these proposals have been refined and presented to Session, they will be fully presented to the congregation. I do invite your prayers for the many people devoting hours of work to these endeavors. We owe them all a debt of gratitude.

With gratitude for you all,

Bob Henderson, Senior Minister

Session Digest

- Due to the generosity of the congregation, Covenant ended 2016 with a positive income over expenditures. The Session approved the distribution of $28,574 to support long-range vision objectives overseen by the Planning and Evaluation Board.
- Education Ministry provided a recap of the recently completed Charlotte's Wake-Up Call series, which had an average attendance of 350 over five sessions.
- Mission and Outreach presented a new 5-year planning spreadsheet to plan and track total available mission dollars, including restricted funds and operating budget.
- Engagement Ministry reported that since 2008 (when the rolls were purged), membership has grown 23% to a total of 2,221. Members 26-45 years old represented the largest growth segment by age group.
- Worship Ministry presented plans for 2017 to address logistical, practical and aesthetic issues to improve and enhance the worship experience across all services.

Mission & Outreach

Be a camp buddy - and lift up a child

Carla Leaf
Director of Mission and Outreach

You can help provide a powerful summer experience for a child. Be a camp buddy in support of youngsters at Highland Renaissance Academy, our CMS partner school.

Each buddy will assist in getting a child to Covenant to take the bus to camp for Week 1 (June 18-24) or Week 2 (June 25-July 1).

You can also volunteer to drive the bus and/or provide sack lunches for children. On Tuesday, April 25 at 5:30 p.m., Covenant buddies will gather at Highland to meet students and parents with whom we will partner. To get involved, contact Evan.amo@covenantpresby.org.

Mission festival on hiatus: Covenant groups are once again traveling near and far to serve our neighbors in need. Thanks to your generous support through our Mission Festival over the years, we have made an impact on thousands of people.

Because of the success of previous festivals, we will be able to take time to re-calibrate this amazing day. Our next festival auction will be in February 2018 and we know it will continue to be a fun event that lets our congregation show its support for our mission partners.

If you have items to donate, we can accommodate your needs. Please contact me at Carla.leaf@covenantpresby.org for ways you can donate or be part of the festival team.

A mission team from Covenant traveled to Reynosa last week to help build a home for the Rodriguez Ramirez family (above). Hugo Sr. works as a foreman's helper, making about $60 a week. Please pray for travelers Carla Leaf, LeAnne Stipp, Kay Wheeler, Elna Falls, Cathy Kendrick, Scott Roehrig, Jerry Jernigan and Phil Koonce.

Covenant Staff Updates

Daniel Heath will begin seminary Director of contemporary worship and arts

Daniel Heath is again saying 'yes' to God's call in his life, only this call will take him to Princeton, where he will enroll in the Master of Divinity program.

Though we will miss Daniel, we are pleased to support him in this decision and trust God will continue to refine his considerable gifts.

Daniel's last Sunday with us will be June 4.

Our worship life has "been enriched through Daniel's disciplined artistry, his optimistic sense of the possible and his creative energy," Bob Henderson wrote of Daniel's tenure.

Martha Isaacs announces retirement A valuable contributor for nearly 20 years

Martha Isaacs, coordinator of Presbyterian Women's ministries and programs, has announced plans to retire in May, at the conclusion of the program year.

Martha has filled many roles at Covenant since joining the staff in 1998 and is responsible for bringing many new members into the congregation.

"After nearly 20 remarkable years, I am filled with gratitude and deep joy," Martha says. "As I enter retirement, I can anticipate discovering new and creative ways of being engaged in the life of the church I love."

When I was asked, "So, what do you do?"

The timing of a question got me thinking

The always fun-loving Kerry Hamilton helps lead Covenant's College Ministry, a team that visits and supports college students.

I grabbed a drink from the cooler on the patio and headed back inside, where most of the guests were laughing and talking in the kitchen.

My wife's boss had a nice big house, yet like most company parties, all the employees tend to congregate in the kitchen, forcing the spouses to mingle with total strangers in other parts of the home.

I replied, "Well, currently I'm unemployed." The remark stymied the interrogator.

I made my way to the dining room where several other husbands were talking while hovering around a table of cheeses, veggie dips and sausage balls.

Forced by the fear of awkward silence, one of the guys asked me: "So Kerry, what do you do?" It's an important question because your answer can either inspire the course of the current conversation or relegate you to another room of the house.

At the time I was between jobs, so I replied: "Well, currently I'm unemployed." The remark stymied the interrogator and within seconds the subject changed to sports, the next logical topic for men.

The practice of making small talk when meeting someone new follows a common set of principles with the intent of understanding the other person and grading them against your own interests and talents.

Breaking the ice with a comment about the weather is always a safe approach. However, this is only a prelude to the main question most people inherently want to ask, especially men, which is "So, what do you do for a living?"

It's unfortunate that our identity and social value are predominantly determined by what we do as a career or where we work. It's this type of evaluation that hastily labels who we are in the community or where we stand demographically as a class of people. Yes, it sounds a bit devious. But hey, we're human and that's how we are wired.

During the season of Lent, we are called to discard those things in our life that make us stumble or lose focus toward the good news of Jesus Christ.

This year, I'm going to try and eliminate judging people based on what they do professionally. I'll be more open to understanding people based on who they are as individuals.

Thank you
White and Nisbet
families

After more than 30 years of decorating the entire Covenant campus for Advent and Christmas, the White and Nisbet families are stepping aside from this labor of love.

Please thank Genie White, Mary Purvis, Becky Rencher, Lucy Butler and Anne White for their contributions of elegance and beauty to our worship experience these many years.

Taking up the tradition in 2017 will be Adrienne Davis, a member of Worship Arts, and her family. We look forward with anticipation to this gift.

CROP Walk recognizes Covenant member

D.A. Bradley has walked for 38 years

Doris Anne (D.A.) Bradley is the recipient of the 2016 Charlotte CROP Hunger Walk Sam Ryburn Award. This award was presented at a recent Charlotte CROP Walk Recognition Dinner.

The Sam Ryburn Walker Award was started in 1994 to honor Charlottean Sam Ryburn, a Covenant member who, for many years until his death in 2000, was the nation's highest CROP WALKER fundraiser.

Doris Anne (on right in photo) has been a faithful participant in the CROP Walk since it began in Charlotte 38 years ago. She strongly believes in the principles of Church World Service and has even traveled to many countries, some of which host projects supported by Church World Service.

D.A. was a personal friend of Sam and Fran Ryburn and since they were members of Covenant, CROP Walk leaders said they were especially excited about her connection to this award.

Dear Ones,

Now that the days are longer and you may be sleeping less, I want to talk to you a little about some potential benefits of moderate coffee consumption. I'm talking about black coffee which has less than 5 calories per serving, not a Starbucks Venti White Chocolate Mocha which has 580 calories and 22 grams of fat and 79 grams of carbohydrates. Sorry.

A 2014 meta-analysis of studies looking at longterm consumption of three to five cups of coffee a day showed a significant reduction in cardiovascular disease and stroke. Some pretty reliable studies suggest a reduced risk of cognitive decline and Alzheimers. A systematic review published in 2005 demonstrated a reduced risk of Type 2 diabetes in coffee drinkers. The reduction was about a third in folks who consumed at least six cups a day. These findings were upheld by another study published in 2014.

There has been a lot of media attention to anti-oxidants and their benefit in stabilizing free radicals. This supposedly helps prevent cancer. As far as I can tell, the jury is still out on this as a causal relationship. However, I have not found any confirmation of negative effects of moderate coffee consumption other than it interferes with sleep for some people. So, enjoy a cup of your favorite coffee guilt free!

Take care,

Mary

Holy Week Services

COVENANT

Holy Week Schedule of Worship

Palm Sunday, April 9 – Traditional: 8:45 a.m. Chapel and 11 a.m. Sanctuary Contemporary: 9:30 a.m. Sanctuary and 11 a.m. Fellowship Hall (Sanctuary streamed live)

We'll mark the triumphal entry of Jesus into Jerusalem with an organ and brass quintet, followed by the hymn, All Glory, Laud and Honor. The children's Angelus and Chorister's Choirs will sing a lovely setting of the text of Into Jerusalem, accompanied by percussion and piano. The Covenant Choir will sing Handel's setting of Surely He Hath Borne Our Grievs from the Messiah, accompanied by organ, timpani and brass.

Easter Sunday, April 16 – Traditional: Chapel, 8:45 a.m. Chapel and 11 a.m. Sanctuary Contemporary: Sanctuary, 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Fellowship Hall (Sanctuary streamed live)

After a beautiful organ voluntary, the peals of the Covenant Ringers, accompanied by organ and brass ensemble, will ring out, and a bagpiper will play the traditional Highland Cathedral.

The Covenant Choir leads traditional hymns with organ and brass, as well as a glorious arrangement of Beethoven's Hymn to Joy from his Ninth Symphony, among other selections.

Contemporary worship will feature Zeb Harrison and the Sounds of Praise brass band.

Maundy Thursday Contemporary Service – April 13, Sanctuary, 7 p.m. (streamed live)

Remember Jesus' last hours with his disciples through song, prayer and communion. Our own Ron Boozer will create an original art piece during worship.

Good Friday Service – April 14, Sanctuary, 7 p.m. (streamed live)

Music for this Tenebrae service will span from the 16th century to more modern works, including Sir John Stainer's setting of John 3:16, God So Loved the World, and a gripping African American spiritual to the simple lamenting text, He Never Said A Mumblyin' Word. We will mark the occasion with an early German passion chorale by Johann Sebastian Bach and a more contemporary chorus by Twila Paris.

Children's Easter Saturday Service, April 15, Sanctuary, 10 a.m. (streamed live)

Children will present the Easter story and sing. Following the service, there will be a "new life" baby animal petting zoo on the Circle and Easter Egg hunts for preschoolers-kindergarten.

'They see the sky as the limit'

Faith as Resistance: Living out hope in hostile places

Young adults and Covenant friends concerned about the future of the Middle East gathered last week to hear from a Bethlehem pastor working for peace.

Rev. Dr. Mitri Raheb leads a Christian congregation in the West Bank. He spoke about creating a brighter future for people in the Palestinian territories.

It is an exceedingly difficult place to live. Palestinians contend with checkpoints and security walls as part of their daily existence.

Mitri founded a university in Bethlehem that trains students in visual and performing arts as a way to build democracy, critical thinking and free expression.

"Instead of seeing the wall as the limit, they see the sky as the limit," Mitri told more than 40 people in a room at Tyber Creek pub.

Palestinians have experienced occupation for thousands of years. Instilling hope, and mobilizing creative forms of resistance, is a way to work toward the New Testament's promise of liberation, Mitri said.

Theology on Tap events are designed to engage young people on matters of faith and current events.

"The whole night really underscored how very connected we are" to young Palestinians pursuing their hopes and dreams, said Pastoral Resident Jen Christianson. "That's despite all the lines we can - and often do - draw between one another."

Sisters in Spirit Breakfasts Second Tuesdays every month at 7 a.m. in Fellowship Hall

Tuesday, April 4 – Debbie George (top) will introduce us to the power of meditation. Debbie teaches many forms of yoga and meditation, and loves to help bring forth her students' inherent wisdom and inner guidance.

Tuesday, May 9 – Jen Christianson, Pastoral Resident at Covenant, will share her faith journey and touch on universal themes of identity, vocation and self-understanding.

When: Breakfast and programs from 7 to 8 a.m. RSVP: Michelle.williamson@covenantpresby.org

Peek Memorial Concert and Masterclass

Join Covenant for our Annual Peek Memorial Concert and Masterclass featuring Ken Cowan, considered one of North America's finest concert organists.

Ken will play a concert in the Sanctuary on Friday, April 21 at 7:30 p.m. followed by a reception at 8:30 p.m. On Saturday, April 22 from 9 a.m. to noon, students from Carolinas colleges will play for Ken in a masterclass, also open to the public.

Attendees will learn how difficult it is to manage playing five keyboards while mesmerizing with the feet.

First Sunday Talk

Sunday, April 2 at 9:30 a.m.: Suzanne Henderson in FH207

Dr. Suzanne Henderson is a professor of religion at Queens University and Director of the Center for Ethics and Religion.

She is also co-author of a forthcoming book, "Reflections on The Cross in Contexts: Suffering and Redemption in Palestine."

We'll explore Jesus' death on a cross against the backdrop of Roman-occupied Palestine. We'll consider the New Testament's claim that, rather than a tragedy, Jesus' death brought salvation to the world. Finally, we'll consider what it means to follow in the "way of the cross" in our own place and time.

Spotlight: Stephen Ministry

Part of the culture of care at Covenant

In January 1995, a group from Covenant spent two weeks in Orlando, Fla., with Christians from across the country to learn about Stephen Ministry.

More than 20 years later, the lessons they brought home are still guiding the way Covenant responds to the needs of the congregation.

The church has a team of men and women trained as Stephen Ministers to offer confidential, one-on-one support if you are facing grief, illness, transition or a time of challenge.

A Stephen Minister is a companion on your journey, whether that means meeting for coffee once a week or just talking on the phone after a tough day.

"We are here to walk with you," says Nancy Haggart, a Stephen Minister who connected with the group when she joined Covenant four years ago.

Parish Nurse Mary Mattiacci can pair you with a Stephen Minister. Contact Mary at 704-804-7561 or visit covenantpresby.org/connect/care.

As Susan Hickok, part of the original group, explains: "It puts a face on the church for people."
