Message from Bob

Dear friends:

One of the great privileges of my calling is the front row seat to quiet acts of faithful service. In recent weeks, I've been moved repeatedly by glimpses: worship team and choir members rehearsing for hours in preparation for Holy Week and Easter services; senior high advisers stepping into the gap during a time of staffing transition; Affordable Housing Task Force members researching, listening and exploring how we might best address this important need in our city; Planning and Evaluation (P&E) Board members lending their considerable talents to refine our thinking on a potential capital effort; and staff members working long hours and committing themselves to excellence in their respective areas of focus. It's humbling and inspiring.

We'll soon see some good results from all this effort. First, we have the privilege to celebrate with young people in our Confirmation Class when they, after a year-long journey, articulate their faith and officially join the church. We're proud of these young people and grateful for the mentors who have worked with them. Secondly, the Session will hear reports from P&E regarding the potential for a capital campaign. As mentioned many times, these recommendations will revolve around a Child Development Center, Affordable Housing and Community Engagement, and Campus Upgrades. As soon as these ideas take identifiable shape, they will be shared and interpreted widely. Please keep these endeavors in your prayers as extensive research and visionary thinking is being applied to each possibility.

Finally, I ask for your prayers for staff transitions. After 20+ years of faithful service, Martha Isaacs is retiring as Director of Presbyterian Women, Daniel Heath will soon transition from Director of Contemporary Worship to full time seminary student at Princeton, Evan Amo will complete his Pastoral Residency at the end of May, and Jessica Patchett will start her well-earned, 11-week sabbatical on May 22. We count ourselves fortunate to have good summer staffing, but we ask for your prayers for these good folks in their times of transition. Let us be thankful for the time we've shared together.

With gratitude for you all,

Bob

Session Digest

Highlights from recent Session meetings

- Endorsed Daniel Heath as an Inquirer as he prepares to begin studies at Princeton Theological Seminary. Daniel is our outgoing director of contemporary worship and arts.
- Approved sending letters of support to our Jewish and Muslim communities, expressing regret over recent actions of hate and fear. The letter says Covenant stands with these communities in love and friendship.
- Heard a report from Jessica Patchett on the NEXT conference in Kansas City, where Bob and Jessica gave a presentation on responding to modern culture while working for church growth.

Mission & Outreach

An eye-opening mission to western NC

Avery County mission trip

Tuesday to Saturday, September 5 to 9
Cost: $350

Application deadline: June 15
Group: 20 participants

Love to work on Habitat builds? Enjoy the North Carolina mountains?

Carla Leaf
Director of Mission and Outreach

Join a mission team to discover the needs of a community just hours from Charlotte. We will build a home alongside our Avery County neighbors, work with the staff at Crossnore Elementary and get to know fellow North Carolinians.

We'll stay in a community center with bunk beds. This is a great "starter" trip for first-timers of all ages and skill sets.

Freedom School at Highland, our CMS partner school

Covenant supports a Freedom School site at Highland Renaissance Academy serving 60 children in grades K-8. The school runs from June 19 through July 27. You can sign up by contacting Kim Robertson at krobertson@doziermillerlaw.com or by using Volunteer Hub.

There are also service opportunities specifically for high school students. Look for details on the Covenant website.

Covenant volunteers helped build a Habitat home in West Charlotte, part of our congregation's commitment to affordable housing.

Welcome New staff

Rev. Anna Rainey Dickson

Summer associate in mission and outreach

Rev. Anna Rainey Dickson will join us on May 31 as a Summer Associate in Mission and Outreach. Anna comes to us from Raleigh, where she was associate pastor at First Presbyterian and a Pastoral Resident at White Memorial Presbyterian.

Anna began her career as an analyst with Bank of America before answering God's call to ministry. She earned a Master of Divinity in 2011 from Princeton Theological Seminary, where she received awards for her preaching and knowledge of church history.

Heidi Biermann

Seminary intern in Christian Discipleship

Heidi Biermann will join us May 30 as a seminary intern in Christian Discipleship. A Master of Divinity student at Princeton Theological Seminary, Heidi is working on a project to publish critical editions of the texts of the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Heidi graduated from Whitworth University in Spokane, Wash., where she founded a discussion series to tackle contemporary theological topics not addressed in classes. Heidi also gave a presentation last year on "Mentoring Next Generation Women in the Church."

Departing staff members reminisce, reflect

Learn about celebrations for Martha, Daniel and Evan

Covenant will say farewell to Martha Isaacs, who is retiring as director of Presbyterian Women; Daniel Heath, who is leaving as worship arts director to study at Princeton Theological Seminary; and Evan Amo, Pastoral Resident, who is advancing in his career.

'To work here is a gift and a privilege'

My first day in the role was Sept. 11, 2001. I was getting ready for the Mary Circle to meet in the Parlor, making coffee, unlocking doors and welcoming folks.

Someone in that circle's father-in-law worked in the Twin Towers (we later learned he was not at work that day). That morning, John Rogers gathered us in the Chapel. To be in this place during a moment of crisis – where else would you rather be? From that moment on, I was always impressed with the fact that to work here is a gift and a privilege.

The nice part about this job is that I'm not the face of PW. Because of the leadership structure, the women provide the leadership. It's my job to gently guide them. As I tell each new moderator, 'this is your job for two years. You can have whatever influence you want. It's my job to help you succeed.'

Betty Peek (our former music co-director) would always say that we give God our first fruits. Someone should walk in here on a Sunday and say, 'these people must really love what they do and why they do it.'

A celebration for Martha is Sunday, May 21 following 11 a.m. worship in the Fellowship Hall. Light refreshments will be served. Details: Suzanne Harmon at cellospice@hotmail.com.

'This is ministry, it's not entertainment'

Covenant was looking to expand its worship life and had experimented with a contemporary model. I'm an African American male from a Pentecostal background. Demographically, it didn't make sense. I have discovered that I have a call for diversity, specifically as it relates to worship.

My grandparents lived in a home on Tremont Avenue in Dilworth. They were some of the first African Americans in the neighborhood. On the way to a worship team gathering one night, I passed by my grandmother's house and just thought, "Wow." My grandmother is 89 now and she thinks it's phenomenal that I work nearby.

The worship team has become like a family. If someone has a baby, we feel like we've had a little niece or nephew. We start our rehearsals with check-ins with each other. One of the first things I tell newcomers is, "This is ministry. It's not entertainment!"

"One of the first things I tell newcomers is, 'This is a ministry. It's not entertainment.'"

I have kept more than 500 bulletins from every worship service – Sunday mornings, weddings, memorials. I have an Excel spreadsheet of every song we've done. There are names of people who poured the water, who gave the liturgy. It helps me to remember all the colleagues with whom I had the pleasure of leading worship.

A musical celebration for Daniel is Sunday, June 4 from 5 to 6:30 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall. Appetizers will be served. We'll have a box to collect well wishes for Daniel and his family. Details: Katie Stewart at kmartin11@gmail.com.

'Encountering people whose experiences are different'

When I went uptown during the protests last fall (following the Keith Scott shooting), I heard real frustration and saw the bigger picture of why people were hurting. I see justice and equity as part of the call of the Christian church – and my personal call as a minister.

The essence of my job is encountering people whose experiences are different than my own.

One night at Room in the Inn, I was having dinner with a gentleman. He looked at me and asked, "So, what do you think about Trump?" We talked politics for probably 20 minutes. He told me he was worried about the state of our country. I think it was therapeutic for him to share. He felt safe enough to be himself.

I have a passion for those with whom Jesus often interacted – those who suffer, who are poor or who are oppressed. I believe that Jesus meets us in every turn of our humanity, with power to transform the brokenness of our lives.

The Ministry of Mission and local outreach leadership team will honor Evan at a mission gathering on Wednesday, May 10.

Lunch & Learn Gathering

Tuesday, May 23, 11 a.m. in FH105

Join us for a conversation with Scott TenBroeck, founder of Elder Options, to plan ahead for living arrangements in later life.

What are the pros and cons of staying home with support versus moving to senior living?

Consider your current and future needs, weigh the costs and find the best fit for you and/or your loved ones. Lunch is $7.

Crafts and Conversation

Sally Graves and Connie Capp invite you to make angel ornaments to be given out on Christmas Eve.

Drop in Tuesdays any time between 1 and 3 p.m. in the conference room of the Sanctuary building.

Nurse's Note

Contact me at Mary.mattiacci@covenantpresby.org.

Dear Ones,

Now that spring is finally here, I want to encourage you to get out and spend time with other folks.

I've been doing some reading on social isolation and it's clearly bad for you. While it's difficult to quantify loneliness, the research is consistent that people who feel alone are at higher risk for depression, high blood pressure, heart disease and stroke.

Some of the most interesting data is coming out of Australia and a group called "beyondblue" that has been doing research on social isolation in middle aged men. Men who are physically fit and have thriving careers and even families but are not spending time with friends suffer higher rates of physical and mental health issues.

It's hard to prioritize time with buddies when you've got financial and familial responsibilities but it looks like it's really important to carve out some friend time. Men are less likely to do this than women.

So, think about reconnecting with some of your friends, take a class or exercise together. Consider coming on a TLC trip or volunteer at the church. If you need some ideas, please contact me and we'll talk about it.

Take care,

Mary

Men's Getaway A look back at weekend in Etowah Valley

The fifth annual Men's Getaway brought together 80+ guys for a weekend in beautiful Etowah Valley, NC.

Trip leaders John Ramsey and Paul Steffens devised an action-packed itinerary highlighted by golf, hiking, bowling, skeet shooting, a brewery tour and a Sunday morning devotional from Grady Moseley.

Many guys, notably vocal Tar Heel supporter Hunter Hoover and UNC basketball great Bruce Buckley, watched UNC beat Oregon in a Final Four matchup Saturday night.

Thanks to all for making this Covenant's best-attended Men's Getaway yet.

New lighting, brighter Sanctuary

Campus is converting to green-friendly LED lighting

New LED lighting makes it easier to see and interact while also reducing Covenant's carbon footprint.

Bob Henderson called the lighting enhancements "a game-changer" and said they bring new energy to the worship experience.

Crews recently installed the fixtures as part of a campus-wide conversion to energy-efficient lighting.

LED lights are up to 80 percent more efficient than traditional lighting. A remarkable 95 percent of the energy is converted into light and only 5 percent is wasted as heat.

Less energy use reduces the demand from power plants and decreases greenhouse gas emissions.

These young people are serving the world

Covenant hosted the annual Church in Vocation luncheon to celebrate Davidson College graduates pursuing careers in ministry-related fields. It was a reunion of sorts for pastors, seminary leaders and faculty from the Presbyterian orbit.

Young people shared how they are using their God-given abilities to create a more whole and just world.

Dr. Heath Pelham, after a pediatric residency in Birmingham, Ala, is headed to Memphis to work on child development issues in the age of smart phones. Christina Evans produces documentary films in Brooklyn and has plans for a social justice website.

Julia Watkins, a seminary student at Princeton, will spend the summer as a hospital chaplain at Duke University Medical Center. And Katie Voegtli works in mental health with Families

Rising, a New York City collaborative that works with teens in the courts system as an alternative to jail time. Julia and Katie served with Covenant as Stapleton interns.

Guest speaker Ted Wardlaw, president of Austin Theological Seminary, noted that becoming a pastor does not just involve a calling from God, but also the discernment of loved ones, mentors and friends along the way.

Find the intersection of your greatest joys and the world's most urgent needs, Ted challenged these young people. As he put it, "claim that empty space in a person's life and make it holy with your presence."
